

by callum&mark

A guide to Trees and where to find them small natural history series published

randomly, with love

by
callum&mark

portobello&leith
edinburgh

as the act directs

2007

download the set from <http://www.badenyon.org/callummark>

a short book
from tiny acorns mighty stories grow may be reproduced freely

About the Authors
Following the success of the first 'short book' series, callum&mark have turned their creative eyes on the marvels of the natural world. One of them can play the violin amazingly well now, and they both whistle. In addition to writing books, callum directs and produces stop-motion films, and mark is very enthusiastic about small wiggly things. This book could not have been produced without the enthusiasm for life of small acorns and other seeds.

number 9 of a natural history series

ash
oak
larch
alder
birch
beech
rowan
cherry
juniper
scots pine
and other species

may be found in may contain

and elsewhere
hedgerows
plantations
coppices
stands
glades
forests
woods

page 1